CABERNET SAUVIGNON

COLORBLOCK

The fruitfor this wine is from the central valley in Chile where a combination of high-altitude vineyards close to the Andes mountain range give the wine its freshnessand minerality which is balanced from fruit from the interior of the county and toward the West and the Pacific ocean where the fruit profile contributes warmer tropical characters to the blend.

TASTING NOTES

Bright in appearance, vibrant in hue. Impactful black current notes, hints of leather and warm plumb notes are balanced by the freshness of the raspberry acidity. Moderate weight with balanced acidity and tannins.This wine is fresh and inviting with a long finish.

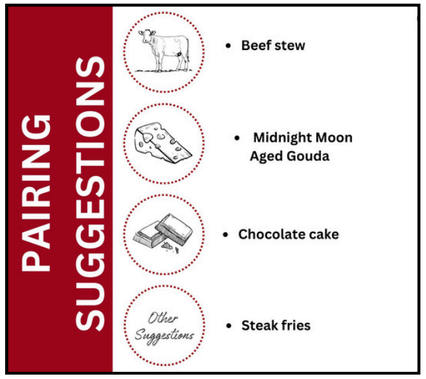

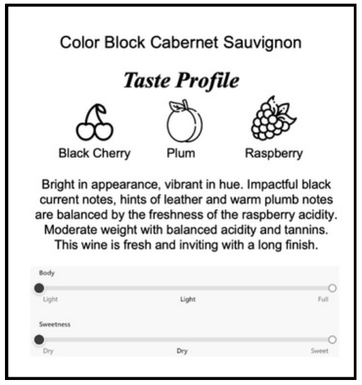

JOHNSON SCUTT, WINEMAKER

Part winemaker, part adventurer - Johnson Scutt has made wine from over 11 different countries, including Spain, Italy, Hungary and Cyprus. Originally from New Zealand, Scutt grew up on his family's winemaking estate, which ignited his passion to pursue wine. He earned his Wine Science degree and worked for several years in Australia before setting out to travel the world. This adventure included double harvests each year, flying from the southern hemisphere to the northern hemisphere to make wine. Finally, he settled in the UK to work with European wines.

In 2004, he joined WX as the Director of Sourcing, first for Europe and now for the Southern Hemisphere. Scutt is devoted to finding and delivering honest varietal expression for the best value. He currently lives in New Zealand with his wife, kids and two Catalan cats.
